

Help Us Keep a Christian Presence in the Theater

We all know the importance of keeping traditional Christian values at the forefront of the battle for the heart and soul of our society. We hear it all the time-- "Hollywood doesn't speak for mainstream America." But isn't that simply the same type of rhetoric Hollywood uses to decry our beliefs? Rather than merely voicing disapproval over the path Hollywood has taken, and the liberal influence it continues to hold over our society, why not work to change Hollywood?

That's right! Talented, creative, Christian students are presently hard at work in the Theater Arts Department at Liberty University--honing their skills to perfection, hoping to be able to influence the entertainment industry with their Christian worldview.

And we need your help to be able to help them.

The Matthew Jordan Brown Memorial Scholarship Fund gives annual scholarships to financially deserving African American and Native American Theater Arts students at Liberty University. Your generous donations will allow us to invest in the future of entertainment in this country, by investing in these devoted Christian actors and actresses.

If we can support enough of these aspiring Christian performers being trained and inspired through their education at Liberty University, then maybe one day, Hollywood will actually speak for us. Visit us on the web: www.mjbfoundation.com.

Please make checks payable to Liberty University Foundation

memo: Matthew Jordan Brown Memorial Scholarship Fund

P. O. Box 499
Moneta, VA 24122

Matthew Jordan Brown
FOUNDATION

Matthew Brown was a master performer, a brilliant poet, an avid music lover, and a kind heart who reached out and deeply touched those with whom he came into contact.

Matthew had a contagious smile that often masked a bit of a mischievous spirit; but those who knew him, knew just how much he truly cared about people--young and old.

While the breadth of Matthew's poetic insight, the height of his unique performing talents and the depth of his love for people were far greater than most achieve in a long life--it must be understood as truly amazing that one could achieve these without ever seeing his eighteenth birthday.